

SEA POWER 2020

ADM this month will be examining all things naval as many major programs are now beginning to take shape after the big contract announcements of the past two years. The blend of acquisition and sustainment activities being undertaken by Defence at this time are huge and ADM will be on deck to help you navigate through them.

Maritime related efforts will take up much of the spending and priorities in complex Defence program over the coming decade. ADM will look at how industry, both locally and internationally, can and will support this effort with both surface fleets and submarines, manned and unmanned.

Space

With the settling of the new Australian Space Agency in Adelaide, ADM is pleased to announce that we will be holding our second Space Summit in Canberra on April 28, building on the successful inaugural event last year.

To support this effort, we're going to be examining what Australia brings to the international table in this domain and how the nation is building a sovereign space capability in both the civil and military contexts.

EXCLUSIVE DISTRIBUTION AT ADM'S SECOND SPACE SUMMIT IN CANBERRA ON APRIL 28, 2020.

HOT TOPICS

- Ship building industry
- Sea 5000
- Sea 1000
- Current fleet sustainment
- Naval weapons
- Australian Space Agency
- Space start ups
- Satellites

DEADLINES ■ CLOSING DATE 10 MARCH, 2020 ■ MATERIAL DEADLINE 17 MARCH, 2020

David Jones, Advertising Sales Manager E davidjones@australiandefence.com.au
T 07 3348 6966 INT. T 61 7 3348 6966 M 0412 188 100 INT. M 61 412 188 100

